Off-Season Preparation

Thanks to all of you that have taken part in our Zoom meetings the last month. Your willingness to adjust and adapt during these extraordinary times is a testament to your character and dedication. This week we will post four videos covering the following topics:

- New Rules and Interpretations
- Replay Process
- Reviewable Plays
- Competitive Effect

The first new rules/interpretations video covers clock changes and a kicking team player going out of bounds on own and returning to the field of play. There will be future videos covering the other changes.

The three videos pertaining to process are for you to work through on your own. The breakdown is available after the play, but the goal is for you to work through it first before you view the breakdown. Honing our process now is critical to our success going forward.

Zoom meetings by conference/organization will resume the week of May 11th.

Please contact me with any questions or suggestions.
